THE METHOD OF Praying the ROSARY OR OF THE BLESSED LADY:

An ADVERTISEMENT Concerning the following Method of saying the ROSARY.

THE Devotion of the Rosary, so called, because it is, as it were, a Chaplet of Spiritual Roses, that is, of most sweet and devout Prayers, was first revealed by the B. Virgin to St. Dominick, (the Father and Founder of the Holy Order of Preachers) as a Devotion most effectuous for the obtaining all favours from God, and averting all evils from our selves. It consists of Fifteen Pater Noster's, and a Hundred and fifty Ave Mary's, and is divided into three Parts, whereof each contains in it Five Decads: that is Five Pater Noster's, and Fifty Ave Mary's.

To each of these Decads, in the following Method is assigned one of the principal Mysteries of the Life of our Saviour, or his Blessed Mother, as matter of Meditation wherein the Mind is to exercise it self, whilst it prays, and therefore is premised before the beginning of each Decad.

The Mysteries also in number fifteen, are divided into three Parts, answerable to the three Parts of the Rosary; that is, into Five Joyfull Mysteries, for the first part of the Rosary, Five Sorrowfull for the Second, and five Glorious for the Third.

Then the use of the following Method or manner of saying the Rosary, consisteth in a devout Application or Actuation of the Mind to the Mysteries assigned, whilst the Tongue is saying, and raising correspondent Affection in the Will; such as the Devotion and necessity of each one shall suggest: For example, in the first part, of Joy and Thanksgiving for the coming of our Redeemer, and the great work of our Redemption. In the second, of Compassion for the suffering of our Lord, and Contrition for our our sins which were the cause of them. In the third, of Exaltation of the Glory of our Saviour, and his Blessed Mother; and hope through the Merits of his Passion, and her Intercession, to be made partakers of Glory with them.

He that shall say the Rosary with this attention of Mind, and affection of Will, shall undoubtedly give much Glory to God, and reap much benefit to his own Soul; which was the Intention of Pope PIUS the Fifth [a most pious Son of St. Dominick] in ordaining it, and is the endeavour at present of one of the meanest among the Sons of so glorious a Father, in publishing the Meditations and Prayers as they are set down in the following Method.

The Joyfull Mysteries assigned for Mondays and Thursdays through the Year, and Sundays in Advent, and after Epiphany, till Lent.

Amen.

Salve Regina.

THE

THE Advertisement begins with the reason, why the foregoing most excellent piece of Devotion, is called the Rosary, viz. because 'tis (as it were) a Chaplet of Spiritual Roses. But Martin De Rosario Navarrus thinks it Miscel. very probable that it had this name given it, in regard of the sweet odours which devout Worshippers have often smelt at the using of it, as well as the sweet Spiritual Consolations wherewith their Souls are revived. Harman who was both Chaplain to the Queen of Heaven, and her Husband, (having had the high honour of being married to her by an Angel) had such a perfect smell of this odour, that every time he took her name into his his Mouth he put his Nostrils to the ground, that they might receive the fresher scent of it. And an old good man of the order of S. Dominick, whom Ibid. Anno 1597. soever he laid the Rosary, was refresht with this fragrant smell. Nay the Hand of S. Catharine, even after the Ibid. 1597. was dead, flowed sweeter than any Rose, by often touching the Rosary.

Were Catholicks only obliged to the pious invention of some devout person for the Rosary, the honour that is done it by these Miracles, must needs beget in them the highest esteem of it; nay considering the meer matter thereof, and the admirable consonance, how can it be less valued than as a precious Jewel, by those whose Hearts are penetrated with the love of Mary, as all Christians are who are true Catholicks? But to raise their minds to the highest pitch of Devotion in the use of it, they are to take notice that the Rosary, (as is said in the Advertisement) was revealed to S. Dominick, not invented by him, and that by the blessed Mary her self; and who can so well direct her Worshippers as her self how to address themselves to her in the most acceptable manner? and who can tell so well as she which are the most efficacious means for the gaining her protection, and the vast benefits of her powerfull intercessions? S. Dominick was inspired with the Rosary about the year of our Lord 1200, and he publisht it to the world in the hearing of 12000 men, as also honoured it with wonderfull Miracles.

The Reader is Legenda S. desired to attend to Dominick, the authentick Re- &c.
lation, which alone is sufficient to recommend the Rosary, as worthy the profoundest veneration. There was an Here-

 tick,

sick, who was possest with many Devils, that came to S. Dominick, and fell at his feet, beseeching him to have pity upon him: the Devils then causing him fearfully to roar and blaspheme. The Holy Man was glad of this opportunity for the confirming of his Doctrine, and instantly concluded his Sermon (for he was at this time preaching) and betook himself to conjuring the Devils in this manner: viz. In the name both of the Virgin Mary, and of her Service, the Rotary, of which I am a Defender, I command you O ye hellish Spirits! to make answer to these my questions.

1. How many are there of you in this poor Man, and for whose reason do you thus torment him? The Devils answered, We were but 12, we are not able to withstand this adjuration of thine. We are 15000 Devils in him, and have taken possession of him, both because of his irreverence towards the

Virgin

Virgin Mother of God; although we have no mind to be
and because of his unbelief; for all this while that thou hast been preaching the Rosary, which hath been a mouth or more, this Here-tick hath continued as great an Infidel as ever, therefore do we think reasonable him, because he disdaineth
the Rosary, of which the Ave con-
sisteth of five words, and the whole Psalter fifteen Paters, wherein Turks have dared to deride

2. S. Dominick said; By this Rosary will we whether all that Doctrine I have preached concerning it be true or not. Then all the Devils fell again to fearful blasphemings and howlings, crying out,
Why did we not smash that rude Friar when we first laid hold on him? Now all is gone lost to us for the Saints holden us fast in their chains, and compelled us to confess the truth, and to give Glory
to God and we cannot prevail over
this our implacable foe his preacher,

disbelieve condemning Mary I. or her Bastard, as certainly true, and not less sure than Credit to it you shall all be damned.

THIS Dominick said, Tell me which is the Man you must deliver. Thou art the Man, replyed the Devil, for with thy preaching and praying, thou shewest to all men the way to Paradise, and deliverest me into your hands. Then the Holy Man shewing his modesty, and acknowledging himself to be a great sinner, they cryed, cursed be the thy wickedness which was to all the servants. Hereupon S. Dominick call'd his Disciples about the neck of the Devil, who were pestled with stones Devils, which made him roar like a Bull, and said,

[illegible] you, [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] this occasion the Devil fell into such an horrible roaring, that all the

the people fell to the ground, and cryed, O Dominick, Dominick [illegible] pity, let what Hell [illegible] consent thee, and [illegible] upon us your torments; at least don't compel us to declare [illegible] publickly to give an answer to thy questions. S. Dominick replyed, Nay but you shall give me [illegible] and publish answer. But the Devils being somewhat stubborn, S. Dominick fell down on his knees, and thus besought the Virgin Mary. O most excellent Virgin, by the power of thy Psalter, I beseech thee to make these enemies of Mankind to return an answer to my question. This Prayer was no sooner ended, but flames of fire broke out of the mouth of this miserable wretch, and all the Devils cryed out, By the passion of Christ, by the merits of the Virgin Mary, and suffrages of Holy Church, we beseech thee, O Dominick, don't detain us here any longer. The holy Angels can at any time reveal to thee what thou hast a mind

to

[illegible] but as for us, we are [illegible] that we Christians [illegible] where we [illegible] the Saints [illegible] to their Prayers, and [illegible] Mediators of mediation, for the [illegible] of their own people, who [illegible] in this [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

and we confess, that whosoever perseveres in her worship and service can never be damned with us, we never can prevail against any one of her servants; she saves many at the very moment of death, and so robs us of our right; and but that she disappoints us in all our projects, we might have long since seduced all her Church from the Faith. To say all in one word, no man who lyeth her Rosary can be damned.

St. Dominick having now his expectation answered, continues the people to say the Rosary; and at that instant, at every Ave Mary, there a troop of Devils in the shape of burning coals broke out of the body of this Heretick. And being all out, the Virgin gave the people her blessing and departed. And from this time all good Catholick people did apply themselves to the use of the Rosary, and to the worship of the Queen of Heaven, and Mother of God.

We will add a few more Remarkable Relations more for the honour of the Rosary.

A Lewis a Knight of Rosary, who used to recite the Rosary daily, and fought against the Albigenses; one time when they with a great multitude had surrounded him who had but a small number with him, he saw the Blessed Virgin call to them, encouraging the number of them to the Rosary at his enemies, and so hence the victory. Another time as the same Knight was sailing to Jerusalem, and his Ship was broken by a Tempest, in that danger there appeared in the Sea 3 so high Mountains, by which he got safe to the Continent: After his death his hands and mouth (the instruments of reciting the Rosary) shone as clear as Crystal. Spinel. in Mar. Ary. Chron. Der. p. 600.

A Gentlewoman taught her little children before they went to School to say the Rosary before an Image of the Blessed Virgin; one of them as he went to School fell from a Bridge into a River, which misfortune when he heard of, he flies to the Blessed Virgin and prays thus all in tears. O true Mother of God, the ordinary hope of the afflicted, If it seem good to your pity deliver, but my Child from drowning, but whatever your will be done. After she had said one Ave, her Child began to lift up his head out of the River, and swimming above water was taken up alive. The Child then told his Mother, that the Blessed Virgin, before whose Image she taught him to say the Rosary, as soon as he fell into the River, took him into her bosome and defended him from the waters ready to swallow him. Alexn de Salvarr pie amandi. p. 495.

This last Author tells another remarkable story of one Alexandra that had been entered by S. Dominick into the fraternity of the Rosary, who afterward was killed and her head cut off and cast into a pit; But because she desired to be Confessed before she was killed and could not obtain that favour, S. Dominick was admonish'd by a vision to repair to the pit where her body lay; as soon as he had called out Alexandra at the pits side, her head presently came up upon the brink of the pit and begged of S. Dominick to hear her Confession, which he did; and 15 days after she appeared to S. Dominick in a splendid habit all bedeck'd with Stars, and told him, That she was sent from the Souls in Purgatory upon an Embassy to him, who all intreated him humbly that he would enroll them into the fraternity of the Rosary, that they together with the living might be partakers of the merits of that Congregation. Id. Ibid. p. 514, &c.

A further Recommendation of the Rosary.

IN order to the more effectual recommending of this Blessed Form of Devotion, to the daily use of the Catholicks, we might shew from the Books of most worthy Sons of our Church, how it hath sheltered holy Monks from storms.

* That when holy men have been saying the Rosary, they have seen Angels gathering Lilies at every Pater, and a Rose at every Ave, and making Nosegays and Garlands with them for those that are diligent in the use of the Rosary.

† That the Queen of Mercy appeared to S. Dominick when he was praying against the Albigenses, and required him to preach up the Rosary, assuring him that it should find great acceptance both with her self and Son. And that it shall be a singular weapon to destroy both Heresies, and Vices, and to exercise all kinds of Vertue. * That while constant repeating the Salutation of the Rosary, Eusebius the Cistercian had it written on his Tongue very legibly. † That S. Jossian and S. Ybert, and many Monks of all Orders, had Roses and Lilies growing upon themselves, or their Graves, with Ave Maria's in Golden Letters ‖. Hereto might be added innumerable other admirable Stories of Miracles wrought for the raising in our minds the highest esteem for the Rosary: And of Visits the Virgin Mother of God hath hath made from Heaven to Saints and devout Persons who had a great value for it: And of marvelous, both bodily and ghostly blessings that the Queen of Heaven hath bestowed with her own hand upon the using of it: And that the Rosary hath done most wonderfull things when onely hung about the Neck, or on a Banner, &c. But as enough hath been said to convince all good Catholick people how great a sin it is to neglect the Rosary, so the narrow room we are here confined to will not admit of our adding more.
